

The Bays return to Warwick Arts Centre

Live and unrehearsed...

Warwick Arts Centre will see The Bays return with another thrilling live performance on Friday 9 October.

The Bays are a UK band who make exhilarating live electronic music. They are a band who don't make recordings, don't rehearse and who have no set-list. The Bays are completely live in the moment, giving an unrepeatabe, entirely improvised performance every single time.

Moving seamlessly from hip hop and drum 'n' bass to ambient grooves and dubby basslines, they challenge every old-school notion of a live band.

Tom Twyker's iconic 1998 film Run Lola Run provides inspiration and a backdrop for the evening. We see a three-way plot that flies through cartoon sequences, bank heists and the urban jungle, providing a perfect companion for the Bays fast, loud dazzling music.

For The Bays, performance is the product. The evening will showcase the talents of the band as well as providing the opportunity to see Run Lola Run on the big screen, with a brand new soundtrack.
